TIP:
Leak Free Connections

Should you experience leaking in any of the plumbing connections after assembly:

1. Make sure the connection is screwed together tightly and that screw threads are not crossed or damaged.

2. Disassemble the connection and make sure a rubber washer is present. Make sure the washer is seated properly and not damaged.

Note: Connection A has a factory installed, permanent washer - this connection does not require a separate, flat washer.

3. Tighten the connection.

4. If the connection still leaks, Thread Sealing Tape will be required.

Thread Seal Tape

All of the plumbing connections for this product have been designed to seal WITHOUT thread sealing tape.

However, should any leaking occur due to household plumbing irregularities, Thread Sealing Tape may be necessary and has been included for your convenience.
